VOLUME 5, NUMBER 2

Companions Pray for You Throughout the Year

The basket of Companions prayer petitions sits before the altar at the Shrine of St. Anthony in Ellicott City, Maryland.

Every day, friends from all over the country send the Companions of St. Anthony prayer petitions in handwritten letters, reply cards from our mailings, emails, Facebook messages, and voicemails. Praying to St. Anthony for his intercession with our Lord on behalf of our friends and benefactors has been a central ministry of the Companions since it began over 25 years ago. The Franciscan Friars Conventual of the Shrine of St. Anthony in Ellicott City, Maryland, their brother Franciscans around the country and the world, and their lay prayer partners hold up these many petitions before God in many ways throughout the year.

When prayer petitions are mailed in to us, either on personal stationery or on reply forms from our mailings, they are read by our staff who pray for them immediately. Our lay Prayer Partners will often write an encouraging note to someone, reminding them that God loves them and that the Friars are praying for them; other times they send a Mass card to someone grieving the loss of a loved one; sometimes they even call on the phone so that someone in dire need will hear the sound of a caring voice.

The lay Prayer Partners coordinate with the Friars for further prayer and pastoral outreach for many petitions. Petitions are placed in a basket outside the private chapel of the Friars at the Shrine of St. Anthony, and the Friars take a petition into prayer each time they enter the chapel. Though the Friars of the Shrine personally pray for Companions petitions every day, in some cases, when a priest is needed immediately, a Friar will reach out to him or her. Lastly, some petitions are sent to Friars around the country who continue to pray for these intentions during their personal times of prayer.

On the third Saturday of each month, the lay Prayer Partners gather to pray for the many intentions that come in. Following Mass at the Shrine, the Prayer Partners retire to a private room to pray. This prayer takes many forms: some read petitions as they pray in their own words while others pray the Rosary while reading petitions, and some write notes, also. In

Companions Comments

"Thank you for the wonderful items of St. Anthony that you send me. After hearing stories of St. Anthony, I've not only learned a lot about him but also about myself and what I can do for God."

"I am writing to tell you of my deep love and devotion to St. Anthony. He has been my closest intercessor to Mary and the Trinity. Mostly I pray for my brother's MS. St. Anthony has protected him from the harsh results of this disease for 20 years. Please continue to spread his love!"

"I received a miracle today. I went to the store and I left my pocket book on the basket. I returned right away when I realized what I had done. I was praying to St. Anthony, the Virgin Mary, and the Sacred Heart of Jesus to find my pocket book. When I arrived at the parking lot, the basket was still there with my pocket book in it! I could not believe that after 20 minutes it would still be there. Thank you, St. Anthony."

whichever form it takes, the petitions of our Companions are lifted up by their fellow lay Companions before our Lord.

Prayer petitions are present at many liturgies throughout the year. Every Tuesday, petitions from the prior week are taken in a basket to sit before the altar at the Shrine of St. Anthony for Mass and the Tuesday Novena to St. Anthony. These same petitions are taken back to the Shrine on Thursdays and placed before the Blessed Sacrament during Adoration. At the end of each month, the names of all benefactors to the Franciscans are placed in a basket before the relic of St. Anthony and are present at all Masses and liturgies for the following month. In this way, the intercession of St. Anthony is continued for an additional 30 days.

A special aspect of prayer at the Shrine is the lighting of candles in our chapel. Pilgrims come every day to seek St. Anthony's intercession at Mass and in private devotion before his relics. Many will end their pilgrimage by lighting a candle for their intentions. For all of the requests to light candles that are mailed in from around the country, the Friars of the Shrine light them throughout the week.

Lastly, Masses and Novenas are said multiple times throughout the year for the intentions of the Companions of St. Anthony. Besides daily and weekly Masses, your intentions are remembered during special Feast Days and Holy Days. We encourage you to send us your intentions to be included in these special Masses, which are listed in the schedule to the right.

As you can see, the intentions that our Companions send in to us are prayed over many, many times throughout the day, week, month, and year. It is a special blessing the Friars have to be entrusted with these needs, and it is their great privilege to have the opportunity to speak to God, through St. Anthony, on behalf of so many.

Pilgrims Carlotta Salazar from Virginia and her sister Elizabeth Ledesma from Texas made the long journey to the Shrine of St. Anthony in March 2016 as part of their Lenten devotions.

Praying for the Intercession of the Saints

By Fr. Jude Winkler, OFM Conv.

One of the most consoling promises that Jesus has made to us is that whatever we pray for in His name will be granted. He has promised to be our intercessor with the Father, and that we will never feel cut off from the power of God.

If Jesus made this promise, then why should we bother praying for the intercession of the saints? Should we not simply pray to Jesus, trusting that He will grant us whatever we need?

What is Prayer

Before we can address that question, there is a more basic question to ask. Does Jesus really grant all those things for which we pray? Very often we pray for something for years and years and we never seem to receive it. So what are prayers and how do they work?

At times we approach prayer as if God were a machine and we have to place the proper fuel in that machine to make it work. Our prayers are that fuel, and if we strike the proper mixture of novenas, candles and promises to reform our lives, then God is all but obliged to give us what we want.

At other times, we recognize that God might not grant us what we want. Therefore, our prayers seem more like tokens which we place in a slot machine. We say our prayers and pull the lever, hoping our three oranges—our miracle—will pop up.

Prayer as Relationship

All of this is to take a very mechanical approach to our relationship with God. God is not a machine which we prime with our prayer. God is a person, and our prayers are communication, an expression of love and trust. In prayer, we join our love to that of God and we trust that God will respond to our need in the most loving way possible. This is where some of the confusion lies. We almost always believe that the most loving response to our prayers would be to grant what we want when we want it. God often realizes that we can be more loving people if the response to our prayer is not the miracle that we request. Sometimes we learn patience when our request is not granted, or we learn to trust in the midst of suffering, or we learn to persevere in our request.

Praying as a Community

Because prayer is an expression of love, we often ask others to join us in prayer for a particular need. It is not that we will develop a greater weight of prayer when more than one person is praying for a need. It is that when I express love, I naturally want others to participate in my love. It makes a difference when I am praying together with a friend or with my Church for a particular need. The more love that is expressed, the easier it is for us to respond to God's response with love and trust.

The Community of Saints

What has been said about wanting our family and friends to join us in prayer for a particular need can also be said of the saints. We can pray to God without asking for the intercession of the saints, but because our prayer is an expression of love, we want everyone in our community of love to join us in our prayer.

But who exactly are saints? At its broadest definition, saints are people who were so in love with God and with their sisters and brothers in this life that they continue to express that love even after their deaths. Their love is stronger than death. They will continue to express love for those who are still on this earth until they are once again in Heaven.

Most of us have experienced this in our own lives. We have a favorite relative, or a husband or a wife who has passed away. At first, we were overwhelmed by the loneliness of separation. It feels as if all the love which we had shared had somehow been defeated and now we were all alone. Then one evening we felt a presence alongside of us. We were not afraid; we did not think it was a threatening presence. We simply knew that our loved one was there with us. We began to talk to that person. We began to feel the help of our loved one in difficult times.

The Church's Saints

This experience teaches us what the saints mean for us. The saints are all those who have gone to heaven. Yet, the Church has chosen certain men and women whom it has officially proclaimed as saints. These are women and men who were so courageous and generous in their love that everyone knows that they are in heaven. Their love was so large and expansive that they want to reach out and embrace the whole world. These, in fact, are the two basic requirements for one to be canonized: that there be a devotion to that person and that the intercession of that person be proved through the miracles obtained by praying to that person. When this has been certified, the Church proclaims that these heroes are both examples of lived faith and intercessors in time of need.

Never Lonely

If we think of what all of this means, we realize that the heavens are literally packed with people who love us and who are willing to intercede for us. One of our greatest fears in the modern world is that we will be all alone and lonely. The doctrine of the communion of saints is the guarantee that we are part of a loving community which even death cannot separate. Our prayer to the saints for their intercession in our times of need, whether it be the saints from our own family or those saints whom the Church has officially proclaimed, is an act of faith in the belief that love is stronger than death.
